Early Life & Family

12th of February 1809 is a day to remember as globally famous Charles Darwin was born. He had two parents named Robert Waring Darwin, his father, and Susannah Wedgwood, his mother. Smart Charles Darwin was born in Shrewsbury and, apparently, he is the 2nd youngest child out of 5 other children. Surprisingly, he was an animal and nature lover. Every day, he would sit outside his house and admire the beautiful, lovely world as much as I adore animals which is alot. Underneath the dining table, Charles would be resting and reading.

Career

Christ's College Cambridge was the start of Charles career. Confused Charles Darwin didn't know what to be for his career until a Royal Botany professor named John Stevens Henslow offered a scientific expedition around the world as his interest was animals and their species. He thought about it for a while and accepted the offer. His father disliked the idea and disagreed. Knowing Charles wanted to do the expedition he later on agreed. Then came the day, Christmas 1831, Captain Fitzroy, Charles Darwin and other people set off to sail in the colossal, gleaming, navy-blue sea. After studying and studying and studying different islands, plants and animals for 5 years straight, he had found the theory of evolution.
